Dear:

Please be advised:

You/the above named resident is being transferred due to:

Hospitalization for:

Therapeutic Leave

Your /the above named resident's belongings:

Will be sent with you/the resident as requested

Will be safeguarded until your/the resident's return

Bed Holds and Applicable Charges

You/the resident currently occupies a private pay bed; the private pay rate per day to hold the bed is:

- As long as payment is received, there is no limit on how long the bed can be held

You/the resident currently occupies a Medicare bed

- Medicare will not pay to hold your/the resident's bed. You may pay privately to hold the bed at the rate stated above.

You/the resident currently occupies a private insurance bed

- Insurance will not pay to hold your/the resident's bed. You may pay privately to hold the bed at the rate stated above.

You/the resident currently occupies a Medicaid covered bed

- Per State regulation, your bed must be held for ten days at no charge for hospitalizations and 24 days per calendar year for therapeutic leave; bed-hold for days in excess of these limitations are considered non-covered services; should this occur, your/the resident's own income can be used to cover additional days.
  - If you/the resident does not elect to pay for additional bed-hold days, with the exception of cases where the facility feels readmission is not appropriate and initiates discharge:
    - You/the resident will still be permitted to return to your previous bed if it is available
    - You/the resident will be given the option to accept the next available bed

See Reverse side for FAQ's Regarding Bed Holds

What is a bed hold?

A bedhold is when a healthcare center holds a bed for a resident when he/she is hospitalized and/or goes on therapeutic leave.

What is a therapeutic leave?

An absence for purposes other than required hospitalization.

Does this facility have a bed hold policy?

Yes, and it is presented to residents and/or their representatives upon admission. Additionally, residents and/or their representatives are given the notice found on the reverse side of this sheet whenever there is a hospitalization or therapeutic leave.

Will I / the resident I represent be able to come back to this facility even the bed was not held?

Residents have a right to return to the same nursing home IF there is an available bed. And even if someone has taken a resident's "old" bed, they are entitled to return to the first available bed in a semi-private room.

What if the facility is full?

Very few nursing homes are so full that a bed would not be available. If this happens, however, the hospital must help with finding another center where beds are available. Then, if desired, a transfer back can be facilitated once beds are available again.

What if you say you don't have a bed when you really do?

If you suspect this to be the case, you may contact the Office of the Ombudsman at:

Note: If a nursing home doesn't readmit you back in when a bed is available, this is called an involuntary discharge. You have a right to receive a 30-day involuntary discharge notice which includes notice of your appeal rights.
